GROVER NOT A HERO

His Admirers Make an Exhibition of Sycophancy

BEFORE THE GREAT AUTOCRAT

But the Inwardness of the Compromise Plake Exposes His True Attrude on Repeal.

President Cleveland, according to mageump prophets, has become greater than Andrew Jackson. To him, they say, is to be given the entire credit for the surrender of the silver mon and the passage of the unconditional repeal bill, if it shall pass. The credit is not deserved. It is possible that the truth of the farlure of the silver compromise may some time be written and that the pubio will know how it happened that the leaders of the democrat party in the senate—all of the mombers of the democrat party in the senate in fact, with the exception of seven senators, five of whom had given verbal promises to sign the agramment—were deceived into the belief that the administration was favorable to that compromise. Just now, for the sake of the party and to curry favor with the administration, the most ig public exhibition of cowardice and of sycophancy which has been witnessed in many generations here, is visible. Democrat sonators who have been re-garded as the type of chivairy and honor neitherately denounce as false state-ments which they themselves personally music in the presence of many witnesses, and seek from what they suppose is the secure refuge of the senate chamber and the exemption from the responsibility in debute, to denounce those newspaper representatives who have been the accorate historians of the day. The time will come when the history of the silver compromise will be written, and when it is it will be shown that it was the democrat senators and not the newspaper men who bore false witness. No Matter What Denials Are Made.

It does not matter what official de-nials may be made or what senators or cabinet officers, eager to aid their party cabinet officers, eager to sid their party cause in the state elections or to promote personal ambition, may say, there is no doubt that the famous silver compromise was well understood by the administration, and that such statements were made with regard to it by those authorized to speak for the administration as convinced practically all of the democrat senators that the measure received the approval both of the secretary of the treasury and of the presi-dent. It was not until near midnight last Saturday that the administration announced, in a covert way by the hand of an underling, that it did not approve of the compromise. Yet the terms of the compromise had been published here in the morning newspapers, which the president always carefully reads, and had been published in the evening newspapers with full details as to the names of the democrat senators who had

The night before Secretary Carlisle wought Senator Sherman at the house of the effect of this proposed compromise, and discovered that, in the opinion of Senator Sherman, it was an inflation measure of an extreme sort, and would receive no usburn contrary it would be vigorously denounced by the republicans and by sound money men everywhere. Secretary Carlisle is said to have driven with that message shreetly from Senator Sherman's house to the country seat of the president Mr Benedict Was Interested.

Democrats are responsible, also, for this curious story. They say that E. C. Benedict, the millionaire broker of New York and Connecticut, promotor of the Chicago gas trust speculation, who is the manager of Mr. Cleveland's pri-tale money affairs, and is understood to have made for him the great fortune which he possesses, had come to Washlugion at that time, and was in close to that visit of 'his millionaire broker, becom friend and private financial agent for the president of the United States, the democrat senators had been given to understand that the proposed compromiles would receive the support of the administration. After the visit of the secretary of the treasury to Senator Sherman and the visit of Broker Benediet to Grover Cleveland, the administration, near midnight of the day on which the compromise with its signa-tures was published, discovered that the president was opposed to it, and that no member of his cabinet had ever given it emedicration. There are some facts its this which will some time be given to the public, and when they are it will he seen that once more Grover Cleretrue's to make men fatalists, has again gamed great credit for esgacity, fore-sight patriction, and rindom which he

Lamont Favored It.

Is has been discovered since the silyer compromise was defeated and since the provident declared that so member of the administration had ever encouraged or approved of any compromise, that the man in his calonet and in the Cleveland, Secretary Daniel J. Lamont. has from the first been the agraest adrucate of compromise. It is known that Secretary Lamont has from the boginning approved of the course of Senator Georgan in endeavoring to secure a comcrut party. Mr. Largoot has been canthat enough since the defeat of comprowho are familiar with every detail of the compromise that Secretary Lamint and solv appared of the compromise in general terms, but that he had something to do with the particular compromise which was assessed in Saturday. Some over go so far as in any that Secreture Lamont spoks, or pretended to speak her the president. At least that was the understanding of some of the They were induced in believe by Mr. Lamont that when the president did not commit himself to anything in adtusce, he. Lamont, could assure them that the compromise measure then un-der consideration if it should be passed by the two houses, would not encounter tice presidential value

One attiject has been made clear to day which has greatly relieved Mr. Verthese and those who have charge of the repeal bill. Senator Sherman has etated that he will not present his bond amendment to the repeal bill, but immediately after the inconstitional repeal hill shall have been disposed of or at the latest at the beginning of a December amends, he will propose his amendance in the hypersance of the opinion that it will be impers.

tive for the administration to agree to an issue of bends radically opposed to it as the great majority of the democrat party seems to be. Mr. Voorbees, as if to prepare himself in advance for the presentation of such an amendment, has said that he will not permit the bill now to be sidetracked for the ten command-

The republicans have generally conferred upon the subject and, convinced as they are that sound finance requires the issue of honds, they intend to be consistent, and not to advocate such an amendment now through fear that it might have the effect to prolong the debate and to complicate the vote upon unconditional repeal. The republicans have from the first been consistent advocates of repeal and will not recede from their position.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

The skilled toxicologist, writes R. Ogden Doremus in the Forum, reveals the presence of poisons, often when only faint traces exist, by removing them from their surroundings, with solvents, requiring hours, days and sometimes weeks for the separation; exciting them to form combinations with other elements, he causes them to appear in solid, liquid or gaseous conditions. Many of them he arrays in varied colors, or in crystalline shapes, seen distinctly by the achromatic or spochromatic lenses of the microscope. Others he volatilizes in flame, and he views their incundescent vapors through the prisms of the spectroscope. Brilliantly tinted and sharply defined lines, in localities accurately noted, reveal the existence of elude measurement by the balance with all its modern refinements, and so small that the human brain can scarce imprison the thought of their coinuteness. To take one example: Suppose the finger is wetted with a drop of saliva and touched to a salt of lithium, and the adherent white powder is placed on the tongue and then swallowed. After the lapse of a few minutes, on drawing a clean platinum wire over the forehead or any part of the skin, then placing it with its traces of moisture in a Bunsen flame in front of the narrow slit of the spectroscope, an observer, looking through the little telescope of the instrument, will see for a fraction of a second the brightcolored red and yellow lines characteristic of lithium. The soluble sait has passed through the entire circulatory system of the body, and its presence is announced in the perspiration!

The prejudice against opals appears to be disappearing. Anyhow they are popular. There are several varieties of opal and therefore several degrees of merit. The precious, or noble, or oriental opal is the supreme. This has all the colors, and when these colors are broken into spangles it is then called the hariequin opal. Then comes the fire epal or girasel, with hyacinth red and yallow reflection—the former comes from Hungary, the latter from Mexico. The common, or semi-opala, are non-opalescent. The hydrophane, or oculus mundi, is non-transparent, out becomes so by immersion in water or any transparent fluid. The cachasong is nearly opaque and of a bluish white color. The hyalite is colorless, pallucid and white. The opal jasper or wood opal is the petrifaction of wood, opalescent, but without the coloring which makes the "noble" gem so precious.

The Callan-Whalen Horse Case Ended at Last.

VERDICT NO CAUSE OF ACTION

The Case Attracted the Attention of a Large Number of Horses and Farmers.

The now celebrated horse case of Callan va Whalen was brought to a close in Judge Grove's court yesterday with a victory for Dr. Whalen. The case was one brought for malpractice in operating on a colt belonging to Christopher Callan of Wyoming. The case was first tried in justice court and resulted in two disagreements. On the third Dr. Whalen and his attorney, M. Dunham walked out of the court room third Dr. Whalen and his attorney, M. Dunham, walked out of the court room in disgust and allowed judgment to be taken, when they at once appealed to the circuit court. The trial of the case was begun last week and has attracted horsemen and farmers to listen to the testimony. Both sides fought stubbornly as Mr. Callan wished pay for his colt which he claimed died from Mr. Whalen's unskillful treatment and because Dr. Whalen had his reputation as a veterinary surgeon at stake. The jury retired at 2:30 and at 4:30 returned a verdict of no cause of action. no cause of action.

Tore Down a House.

In the case of Addio B. Hallan vs. Nick Firk in Judge Grove's court yesterday Prosecuting Attorney Wolcott and Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Rodgers were pitted against each other. Mrs. Hallan obtained a tax title on forty acres in Plainfield. She erected a small house and farmed it one summer. On returning in the spring she found that Mr. Fink had bought the place, had torn down her house and had taken away the goods which she had stored in the house. Mrs. Hallan brings suit to recover damages to her goods and to recover possession of the farm.
